1. Summary

The Law and Democracy Nucleus (NDD) of the Brazilian Center for Analysis and Planning (CEBRAP) is opening a call for applications to one (1) funded postdoctoral fellowship to work within the scope of the Thematic Project “Crises of Democracy: Critical Theory and Diagnosis of Present Time” (FAPESP Process nº 2019/22387-0). The project is hosted in the city of São Paulo, Brazil, under the coordination of Professor Rúrion Soares Melo. The fellowship contributes to the project’s general goal of discussing and updating concepts of Critical Theory in the context of the contemporary crisis of democracies, with a focus on the distinctive character of the category of public sphere in critical-theoretical contributions, as well as its understanding according to the category of counterpublics and their economic, cultural and political dimensions. the process, see: Auxílio à pesquisa 19/22387-0 - Filosofia social, Teoria crítica - BV FAPESP.

The candidate's research will consist of a broad review of the literature on the debate about the socio-technological interface, based on the models of technological determinism and the social determination of technology, which began to develop in the 1960s and was updated over the following decades. To this end, it should take into account a conflict that is developing, in ideal terms, between the Marshall McLuhan hub and the Pinch, Bijker and Williams hub. The research should also highlight the different perceptions of technology and its role in social change, and identify the contours of problems identified by the literature on digital media that began in the 1990s, considering authors such as Pierre Lévy, Esther Dyson, Richard Barbrook, Cass Sunstein, Lawrence Lessig, Yochai Benkler, Evgeny Morozov, Danah Boyd, among others.

Secondly, the research should identify the extent to which recent literature on democracy and the crisis of democracy in the field of Critical Theory addresses the role of technology. To this end, it should specifically consider the relationships established between digital media and concepts such as populism, authoritarianism, political culture, the public sphere, legitimization, subjectivation, among others. It is also hoped that possible gaps or inconsistencies in this literature will be pointed out, as well as possible ways of overcoming them through alternative theoretical formulations.

The following aspects will be evaluated in the 4-page summary proposal to be sent in the application (listed in item 3 of this call):

- i. Indication of the main bibliographical references on which the research will be based;
- ii. Dialogue with the Thematic Project mentioned above;
- iii. The study may mobilize authors from different theoretical traditions and disciplinary fields, but must necessarily aim for an enriching dialogue with themes and authors from Critical Theory, as described in the Thematic Project;
- iv. Clear and objective writing, including an abstract, objectives and a work plan that is feasible within 19 months;
- v. Submission of at least one academic article to a high-impact journal.

2. Requirements

The selected candidate is expected to be assiduous and committed to the activities of the Thematic Project, participating in periodic research and training meetings, seminars, and courses. Among the specific tasks related to this grant, we highlight the production of manuscripts for academic publication, the presentation of the fellow's research in internal and external seminars, preparation of reports, as well as other activities relevant to the project. The scholarship grant is provided by the São Paulo Research Foundation (FAPESP), which aims to strengthen the research staff in the state, through the engagement of young scholars in teaching, research, extension, and, eventually, mentoring activities. The application requirements are:

- i. To have completed the doctorate no more than 7 years ago (or expect to complete it before the start of the grant);
- ii. An excellent academic curriculum;
- iii. A project related to the theme of this call;
- iv. Full dedication to the project;
- v. To be living in São Paulo by the start of the grant;
